

Monash/C2Zero Real Carbon Price Index

Fact sheet | 30 Jun 2023

The Monash/C2Zero Real Carbon Price Index (RCPI) provides a weighted composite measure of the physical price of carbon¹ across all jurisdictions based on mandated carbon prices set by regulators and governments.

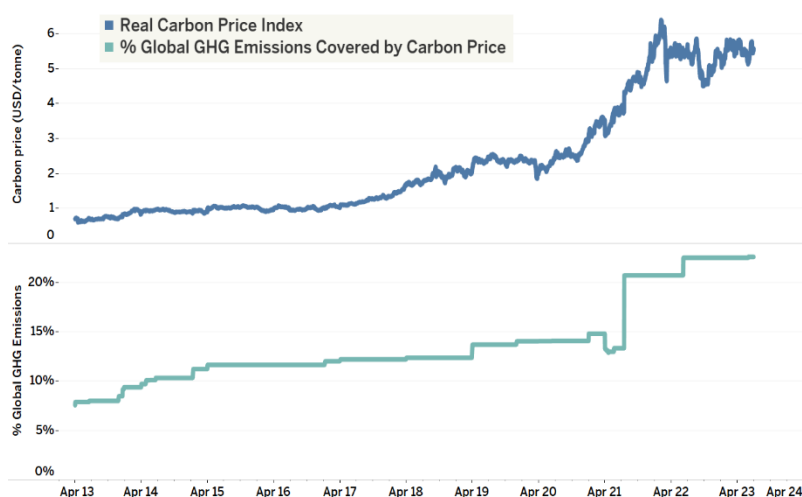

The RCPI covers national, subnational and regional jurisdictions implementing a carbon tax or carbon emissions trading schemes (ETS)² and jurisdictions with no mandatory carbon price – the latter being counted in the index using a price of zero.

The RCPI enables an overall global carbon price and price history to be determined, reflecting the global value of carbon.

The RCPI started in April 2013, covering 20 jurisdictions, accounting for 7.88% of global GHG emissions. As of June 2023, it covered 58 jurisdictions, accounting for 22.59% of global GHG emissions.

Historical Index Value

(April 2013 - Jun 2023)

Highlights

- Last month, global carbon prices rebounded from their previous loss, ending at 8.07%.
- The headline index posted an upward trend in the first 20 days, followed by a setback in the remainder of the month.
- On June 20, the European Union Allowances (EUAs) hit their two-month high (USD 101.34/tonne) as traders reacted to options expiry. However, due to a sharp reduction in net short positions, the bullish momentum was replaced by a decline subsequently.
- The Korea ETS witnessed a substantial decline of 12.92%, resulting in the Korean carbon price hitting its all-time low of USD 7.82 per tonne on June 30. This decline was attributed to the belief that there was an oversupply of allowances in the market.
- The increases observed in the EU ETS and China National ETS served to mitigate the adverse effects of the Korean ETS on global carbon prices.
